What do they do?

The Agency combines commerciality with creativity to mine raw customer and business data, craft strategic insights, create compelling strategies and impactful communication ideas.

They then plan and execute across the right media channels to stimulate conversations, influence behaviour and deliver real ROI. It's an approach which they call Business Creativity.

What's needed?

Their project management team is the engine room of the Agency; the people who make things happen. Now they're looking for their next recruit: a Project Manager, whose role is to ensure the efficient delivery of online and offline work to their clients.

From planning workflow and budget to managing resources, they'll be accountable for the full life cycle of each project. They won't be alone, however - reporting into them will be an up-and-coming Project Coordinator, who'll help them achieve the amazing things our Project Managers do every day.

First and foremost, you'll be a good leader, able to multitask, manage expectations and inspire those around you. With a degree-level qualification and a huge amount of project management experience - ideally in an advertising agency environment - you'll know your methodologies, such as Agile, and online systems including Microsoft Project 2010 and Basecamp. ??

Most importantly, you'll have a rigid determination to use your vast experience to deliver projects on time, on budget and to specification - and to keep things in the Agency moving. ??

When can you start?

You must be eligible to live and work in the UK to be considered for this role.
